ALIENIST TO EXAMINE MRS. OLIVE BURKE

Dr Harold A. Bancroft of Hartford Will See the Young Negress, Confessed Slayer of Her Husband and Will Report to Coroner as to Her Mentality

FINDING IN THE CASE DELAYED

Dr Harold A. Bancroft of Hartford and Wetherfield considered one of the best alienists in Connecticut was invited to Waterbury today by Deputy Coroner Walter J. Smyth to examine Mrs. Olive M. Burke, young negress, who has confessed to fatally stabbing her husband, George Burke, 32, whose funeral was held yesterday noon. A report of Dr. Bancroft's examination will be submitted in writing to the deputy coroner and may figure prominently in the latter's official finding. Mrs. Burke's friends here apparently intimated that she is not right mentally and to eliminate all doubts as to her condition Attorney Smyth took the initiative and procured and requested the services of Dr. Bancroft. At the present time the confessed murderess is in semi-hysterical condition. She regrets her action and feels very keenly the attitude of hostility taken by her husband's relatives and friends. She broke down completely yesterday when members of her family visited her and attempted to console her. She was permitted to leave her room yesterday afternoon and was taken to the funeral home on Pearl street Wednesday evening, but her (Continued on Page 8.)

AMERICANS ARE DEFEATED IN TENNIS MATCH

Vines and Allison Whipped
By Borotra and Cochet
in the Singles Contests
This Morning

Roland Garros Stadium, Paris, July 29. (UP)—France virtually clinched the Davis cup for the sixth successive year to-day when Henri Cochet defeated Wilmer Allison of Texas, 5-7, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2 after Jean Borotra had turned in a surprising 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, victory over Ellsworth Vines of California in the first of the day's two single matches. Wilmer Allison of Texas, won the first set of his Davis cup match with Henri Cochet of France, 7-5. Allison continued to storm the net and finally tied the count at 5-all after having trailed 3-5. Once on even terms, Allison outstepped Cochet to take the final two games. Allison surprised the gallery in this set by repeatedly outvolleying the French ace. Unlike Vines, who was shaky and nervous, Allison played with reckless abandon, stroking every shot with all his might. Allison clung to the net in the second set, refusing to retreat despite Cochet's strongest fire. The Texan repeatedly deceived games with almost incredible volleys. Trailing 1-2 in the second set, he (Continued on Page 8.)

ISAAC BROMLEY OF NEW LONDON DIED TO-DAY

Old Newspaperman and
When He Attended Yale
He Was Member of the Racing Crew

New London, Conn., July 29. (UP)—Major Isaac Bromley, veteran newspaperman, died here today in his 76th year. He was a resident of Yale, he was at one time on the editorial staff of the New York Herald and the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser. He was publicly elected to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for 29 years before retiring in 1915. He received a major's commission in the Connecticut National Guard in 1890. Major Bromley rowed on his crew at Yale and was editor of the Yale Record. A wife and a son survive him.

DEMOCRATS OF STATE WORKING FOR UNANIMITY

Old Guard, Who Tried to Stop Roosevelt May
Meet Him at Harmony
Dinner in Bridgeport

Bridgeport, Conn., July 29. (UP)—Connecticut Old Guard democrats who sought to stop Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt at the national convention will be among those to greet the democratic presidential nominee at a dinner here September 3. It will be guest of honor and principal speaker at the dinner, a testimonial to Archibald McNeil, democratic national committeeman. Efforts are being made to bring all state democratic leaders together at the dinner to complete party harmony among the old guard and new guard.

He Was Killed By Machine of His Close Friend

Waterville, Me., July 29. (U. P.)—Sidney W. Clark, 43, of Portland lost his life to-day when he inadvertently stepped into the path of an automobile operated by his friend, Wilbur Barney, of Portland. Clark, a baking powder salesman, was walking along a road in Waterville when he saw the car approaching. Seeking to attract his friend's attention, he stepped into the middle of the road. Barney was unable to stop in time and the machine struck Clark, who died later of a skull fracture.

DEADLY MISSILES FLY AS POLICE, VETS FIGHT

This hectic battle of brickbats was the prelude to the grave situation which brought armed troops to Washington. "Bonus Marchers," resisting police efforts to evict them, seized bricks and attacked police. Note, in this remarkable action picture made on the scene, the flying missiles, the policeman's cap in the air (center), the man at left menacingly waving a length of gas pipe, the policeman (right) stooping to pick up a club, his face covered with blood. And in the very center, note the conflict for possession of an American flag.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS WAS HECKLED BY ANGRY CROWD

Las Vegas, Nev., July 29. (UP)—Armed guards protected Vice President Charles Curtis to-day as he speeded to Los Angeles by rail after police arrested six persons in the crowd that watched him leave. U. S. marshals, fearing a possible demonstration as a result of the bonus army disorder in Washington, D. C., mounted machine guns around the station. And a cordon of police surrounded the station as Curtis, en route to open the Olympic games at Los Angeles, arrived here. The officers were armed with tear gas grenades. Hecklers interrupted Curtis when he spoke a few words to the crowd praising the engineering in the Hoover dam.

"Why didn't you feed some of those ex-soldiers?" shouted a man in the crowd. Curtis' ire was roused. "I've fed more than you, you dirty coward," retorted the vice-president pounding the rail of the observation platform with his fist.

Late Bulletins

THREE GANGSTER BROTHERS KILLED
Pittsburg, Pa., July 29. (UP)—Three of the Volpe brothers, alleged bootleggers, were shot to death in a Hill district street to-day. Bullets fired from a speeding automobile killed the three brothers as they walked along the sidewalk. The victims were John, James and Arthur Volpe. Only the youngest brother, Louis, survives. Their deaths brought to an end turbulent careers, marked by gang feuds, court trials on various charges, and allegations of political manipulations in the borough of Wilmerding, a suburb.

CAMP BARTLETT EVACUATED
Washington, July 29. (UP)—Voluntary evacuation of Camp Bartlett, the only remaining important bonus army camp in Washington was reported under way during the noon hour. About 900 men, according to Commander Walter Waters, of the bonus army, are in the camp.

LEADER WATERS TO STAY ON
Washington, July 29. (UP)—W. W. Waters will maintain national headquarters in Washington throughout the summer, according to his present plans and will divide his time between here and Johnstown. His aides said they received to-day a huge sheaf of telegrams from all parts of the country offering support "mostly moral, not financial."

HOOVER HAS LAST WORD
Washington, July 29. (UP)—President Hoover in a letter to-day to the commissioners of the District of Columbia declared "there is no group, no matter what its origin, that can be allowed either to violate the laws of this city or to intimidate the government."

OREGON REPORTED MARCHING
Washington, July 29. (UP)—Police reinforcements were sent to Pennsylvania avenue at Fourth street to-day when 300 Oregon veterans were reported to be marching toward the Capitol.

SOME LIVE BITS OF NEWS ABOUT BONUS BATTLE

New York, July 29. (UP)—Rep. F. H. LaGuardia, (repn. N. Y.) to-day sent a telegram to President Hoover deploring use of troops in evacuating the bonus marchers from Washington. "Soup is cheaper than tear bombs and bread better than bullets in maintaining law and order in these times of depression, unemployment and hunger," he wired. "May I respectfully suggest that judgement of General Glassford be heeded. He has demonstrated tact and what is more, sympathy, in dealing with this situation. 'Regardless of whom they may be, American citizens must be provided with food and shelter if they are destitute and hungry. When men are hungry for bread they are naturally irritable and will react furiously. Riots such as occurred in Washington yesterday are symptomatic of conditions, unless intelligently, properly and constructively managed.'"

Johnstown, Pa., July 29. (UP)—The bonus army driven from Washington is welcome to come here and stay as long as it likes, Mayor Eddie McCloskey telephoned leaders there. The former prize fighting, pants pressing major, closely allied with Father James R. Cox, militant Pittsburg priest and himself a champion of the "jobless" did not say how he would take care of the veterans. It was believed any effort to bring the veterans here would be opposed by business men who could not see how it would benefit the veterans or the city.

WAY PAVED FOR DEPORTING OF GEO FAGERAS

Holding to the opinion that young aliens embarking upon a career of crime in this country should not be treated with any unusual leniency and should be compelled to pay the penalty for their offenses, State's Attorney L. L. Lewis was responsible to-day for the reconsideration of the 18-months suspended jail sentence given George Fageras, 20, an English subject. The execution of the jail sentence had been suspended to permit immigration officials time to arrange for the deportation of the youth, who has confessed to three burglaries in this city. When the matter was brought to the official attention of State's Attorney Lewis he voiced his objection. The result was that Judge T. V. Meyer in a court to-day revoked the former sentence, re-opened the case and found probable cause in the young man's case and ordered him held under bond of $250 for the next term of superior court, which (Continued on Page 8.)

DEJECTED ARMY IS STRAGGLING TO SOMEWHERE

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 29. (UP)—A disordered and dejected Bonus Army was straggling away from its still smoldering Waterloo in the mud flats of the National Capital today. The rising sun caught them in groups along roads leading north, south, east and west from Washington, waking as from a bad dream to stretch cramped limbs, boil a pot of coffee and start (Continued on Page 8.)

MACARTHUR IN DEFENSE OF THE MILITARY ACTS

Washington, July 29. (UP)—Delayed military action might have "threatened the institutions of our country" and led to "insurgency and insurrection," General Douglas MacArthur, United States army chief of staff said to-day in discussing the army's victory over the unarmed bonusers. The veterans had become "a bad looking mob animated by the spirit of revolution," MacArthur said. (Continued on Page 10.)

Killed Veteran Led Life Of Hardest Kind Of Luck

Chicago, July 29. (UP)—William Hushka, 35, killed in the attack on the bonus army yesterday at Washington, "gave up a good job to join the army over in France, and has had bad luck ever since," his brother, Charles, revealed to-day. A month ago Hushka, disheartened by long unemployment, left the home of his brother with whom he had been living. "A whole crowd of veterans was coming through the city," Charles said to-day. "William decided to join up. He said he hadn't been able to get a steady job for five years and he couldn't be any worse off in Washington. The last I heard from him was a letter a week ago. He was trying to change his war insurance to make me the beneficiary instead of his wife from whom he had been divorced." The slain veteran entered the army in 1917. He had come here from Lithuania four years before and was still unassimilated. However, he enlisted in the infantry at the outbreak of war and was sent to Camp Funston, Kans., where he was naturalized in a camp ceremony. A butcher by trade, Hushka said the small meat shop he owned in St. Louis to give his wife sufficient funds to live on while he was in the army. Mustered out in 1919, the veteran returned to St. Louis. He wanted to buy back his store but was unable to raise enough money. He left his wife there and came to Chicago to seek work. He had one daughter, Lorretta, 12. Several years ago his wife divorced him and obtained custody of the child.

PRESIDENT CALLED TROOPS TO END RIOTING, HE ASSERTED

Washington, July 29. (UP)—President Hoover, blamed by the bonus army commander for the bloodshed here yesterday, called out the United States army troops to end "rioting and defiance of civil authority," he said in a formal statement.

The statement was issued in explanation of the most sensational military display in the capital since the Civil war—a display that sent young soldiers against World War veterans, that sent cavalry, tanks, infantry, steel bayonets, gas bombs and machine guns into action against the jobless.

Commander in Chief Walter Waters of the bonus expeditionary force declared "every drop of blood shed can be laid directly upon the threshold of the White House."

President Hoover expressed belief that "communists and persons with criminal records" incited the veterans to the fatal clashes with police preceding arrival of the troops.

Waters declared the administration was to blame because it insisted on forcible evacuation of bonus camps in the city without making provision for billets elsewhere. He promised the B. E. F. "will mobilize elsewhere and continue our fight for justice, for the veterans and for the common people." The statements by President Hoover and Waters, issued last night, follow:

PRESIDENT HOOVER
For some days police authorities and treasury officials have been endeavoring to persuade the so-called bonus marchers to evacuate certain buildings which they were occupying without permission. These buildings are on sites where government construction is in progress and their demolition was necessary in order to extend employment in the district and to carry forward the government's construction program. This morning the occupants of these buildings were notified to evacuate and at the request of the police did evacuate the buildings concerned. Thereafter, however, several thousand men from different (Continued on Page 10.)

CASUALTIES IN THAT BATTLE TO OUST VETERANS

One Soldier Dead, But Several Others and Two
Policemen Were Seriously Hurt—Many Others Slightly Injured

Washington, July 29. (UP)—The list of casualties in the fighting between bonus marchers and police and troops follows:
Dead—William J. Hushka, 37, Chicago bonus marcher, shot through the heart.
Seriously injured: Policeman Edgar G. Scott, 27, fractured skull. Policeman John O. Hite, 27, cut with axe. Eric Carlson, 38, bonus marcher, Oakland, Cal., shot in pelvis. (Continued on Page 10.)
